NDA Launches HEALTH NOW-Atlanta®

The National Dental Association (NDA) launched NDA-HEALTH NOW-Atlanta® on Thursday, July 21, 2016, at the Andrew & Walter Young Family YMCA in Atlanta, Georgia.

NDA-HEALTH NOW® (Health Equity, Access, Literacy, Technology and Hope. The event at the YMCA was a part of the NDA 103rd Annual Convention and was hosted for the YMCA's Summer Camp children, their families, and the surrounding community. This Project, started in 2013, was made possible with funding from the Links Foundation, W. K. Kellogg Foundation and The Coca-Cola Foundation. Key collaborators for the Atlanta event were: Colgate, Morehouse School of Medicine, the Georgia Dental Society, and the North Georgia Dental Society. Other community partners were: WellStar Health System, Mobile Expressions, Inc., Wholistic Stress Control Institution Inc., Center for Black Women's Wellness, Atlanta Technical College, Starbucks Camp Creek, Atlanta Chapter of the Links, Incorporated, Camellia Rose Chapter of the Links, Incorporated, Wellcare, C.H.O.I.C.E.S., the Fulton-DeKalb Hospital Authority (FDHA), Fulton County Department of Health and Wellness, Chick-Fil-A, and Southeast Primary Care Consortium AHEC. The Young Family YMCA event featured something for everyone from ages 5-95! A total of 215 children received oral screenings

President's Note

Dear NDA Members:

The 103rd NDA Annual Convention was an awesome experience, and as your President, I have received glowing feedback on the education offerings, speakers, exhibitors, special events and social opportunities, and I grateful to the Atlanta planning team for "showing up and showing out." You worked with the national office to produce a stellar event, and I am sure our members and supporters are appreciative.

To our sponsors, supporters, and exhibitors, I cannot thank you enough for your continuing support of the NDA and its mission. Through your assistance, we are able to come together to learn and share, and return to our respective communities better informed and prepared to provide high quality service.

To the conferees, your engagement and thoughtful exchange of ideas and solutions has once again helped to solidify the foundation of service and care that we as dental professionals practice on a daily basis. Nothing can ever replace the experience of learning from and with your colleagues.

To the City of Atlanta thank you for truly showing what southern hospitality is really all about, one of the many reasons I love calling Georgia my home.

In closing, I say THANK YOU! THANK YOU! THANK YOU!

For those who could not make it, please plan to join us next year, but in the meantime enjoy the Convention in Pictures on the next few pages.

Sincerely

Judy Greenlea Taylor, DDS, MPH, FICD

Message from the National Office

LaVette Henderson, CMP, CVEP, HMCC

AWESOME is the word being used by members and attendees to describe the NDA 103rd Annual Convention on surveys and in communications to the national office.

Attendees expressed they were energized and took full advantage of the fantastic educational series that included different format from lectures, short talks and panel discussions. Networking events were full of fun, laughter and sharing knowledge amongst colleagues. The New Dentist Program was splendid and the SNDA members showed up in record numbers. We can't overlook the overwhelming support we received from our deans and faculty members this year. Bridging the Gap was a major focus and our students shared their excitement surrounding the opportunities to meet and connect with experienced dentists. BIG THANK YOU to our deans and faculty members for mapping the path.

One of our goals in improving access to oral health care is to provide our members with memorable moments and experiences while enhancing skills and knowledge. Collaborating and building long last relationships was in motion across our family of organizations – students, new and veteran dentists, hygienists, assistants – all oral health professionals. I would like to take this opportunity to thank our cadre of amazing speakers and panelists. This year's convention hosted world renowned speakers, local professionals, and clinical, business and education experts. In addition, attendees test-drove products and services in the product and resource center. It was a great convention with an all-star cast.

In closing, I again salute our remaining founding Corporate Roundtable (CRT) partners (Aetna, Colgate, Crest Oral-B, Dental Trade Alliance, Dentsply, GlaxoSmithKline and Henry Schein Dental) and thank all of our CRT Partners for 20 years of support and guidance. Thank you to our convention sponsors/supporters, exhibitors, presenters, local societies and convention committees for their dedication and support to the organization. Everyone was extremely instrumental in the success of this convention.

NDA-HEALTH NOW® programs are currently active in Chicago, Dallas, Houston, New York, New Orleans, Oakland, and Washington, DC. Programs are forming in Detroit, Flint, and Milwaukee. Key elements of the project include: 1) establishing referral networks for Medicaid and Medicare patients; 2) compiling resource directories of providers and pharmacies; and 3) developing and disseminating culturally and linguistically appropriate integrated medical-dental messages. In every city, collaborations are formed with other health professional groups and multi-cultural organizations. Future plans include the purchase and staffing of "mixed-use" mobile health units for each city equipped for medical screening, vision screening, and dental services. Hazel J. NDA HOSTS FIRST NATIONAL INTER-PROFESSIONAL SYMPOSIUM DURING CBCF ANNUAL LEGISLATIVE WEEKEND

The Honorable Louis W. Sullivan, MD

On September 14, 2016, Dr. Judy Greenlea Taylor, NDA President, presided over an innovative program titled “NEW TRENDS FOR A HEALTHIER NATION: INTER-PROFESSIONAL COLLABORATIVE CARE” held at the Hamilton Crowne Plaza in Washington, DC, in conjunction with the Congressional Black Caucus Annual Legislative Conference weekend. The program was supported by educational grants from the Aetna Foundation, Colgate, and the Henry Schein Cares Foundation. The audience of ninety-six (96) attendees included dentists, dental students, physicians, nurses, health administrators and other stakeholders.

The purpose of the program was to increase understanding of the emerging trends in health delivery with increased focus on patient outcomes, including oral health outcomes; to present current concepts of oral health science, emerging integrated health practices, mechanisms for data sharing; and to stimulate inter-professional collaboration for collective impact on health policy and health equity. The seminar also sought to assess how integrating patient-provider collaborations with multiple health disciplines is helping to refine definitions of health and illness and eliminate health disparities. Attendees were given information on how some institutions are providing opportunity for cohesive action to promote team-based practice through inter-professional collaborative practice for improved patient and population health outcomes, and they were able to network with other attendees and speakers to share ideas, ask questions, and find potential collaborators. Under the leadership of Dr. Hazel Harper, NDA-Aetna Consultant/ Director for Inter-Professional Education, the National Dental Association created a very unique experience for the multidisciplinary audience in attendance. The Nurse Planners for the session were Howard University Nursing School Professors Drs. Janalyn Edmonds and Veronica Clarke-Tasker.

The program presenters were Dr. Kenneth B. Chance, Sr., Dean and Professor of Endodontics at the Case Western Reserve University, School of Dental Medicine, and former Dean and Professor at the Meharry Medical College, School of Dentistry; Mr. Brian Cladoosby, Chairman of the Swinomish Indian Tribal and President of the National Congress of American Indians; Mr. John W. Daniels, Chairman Emeritus of the law firm of Quarles & Brady and Chairman of the Board for Aurora Health Care; Dr. Jack Dillenberg, Inaugural Dean of A.T. Still University’s Arizona School of Dentistry & Oral Health and former Associate Director for public health programs in the California Department of Health Services; Ms. Kristen Mizzi Angelone, an officer with the Pew Charitable Trusts Dental Campaign, and former staffer in the U.S. House of Representatives and the U.S. Senate; Dr. Paul E. Gates, Chairman of the Department of Dentistry and the Director of Oral and Maxillofacial Surgery at Bronx Lebanon Hospital Center and Chairman of the Martin Luther King, Jr. Health Center; Dr. Erin Hartnett, Program Director for the NYU School of Nursing’s oral health programs: Oral Health Nursing Education and Practice (OHNEP) and Teaching Oral Systemic Health (TOSH); Mr. Steven W. Kess, Vice President of Global Professional Relations for Henry Schein, Inc. and President of the Henry Schein Cares Foundation; Dr. Glenda F. Newell-Harris, Western Regional Medical Director for Corizon Health Incorporated, and national president of The Links, Incorporated and the Links Foundation, Incorporated; Dr. Karl Self, Director of the University of Minnesota School of Dentistry’s Division of Dental Therapy, consultant for the Minnesota Department of Human Services’ Medical Assistance program, and Director of Inclusivity and Diversity for the University of Minnesota School of Nursing; Dr. Henrie M. Treadwell, Research Professor in the Department of Community Health and Preventive Medicine at Morehouse School of Medicine and Founding Executive Director and Senior Advisor for the Community Voices Initiative; Dr. Eric Williams, Assistant Director/ Faculty Leader and Professor of Nursing at Santa Monica College, Santa Monica, CA, and [first male] president of the National Black Nurses Association.

The symposium format consisted of three panels: “Health Systems & New Models for Health Care Delivery”, moderated by Dr. Dennis Mitchell, Vice Provost for Faculty Diversity and Inclusion for Columbia University and Senior Associate Dean at the Columbia University College of Dental Medicine; “Achieving Oral Health Equity: The Mandate for Total Health”, moderated by Dr. Janet Southerland, Professor in the Department of Oral and Maxillofacial Surgery and former Dean of the Meharry

Medical College, School of Dentistry; and “Inter-Professional Patient Care- The Rx for Healthier Communities”, moderated by Dr. Mary Lee Conicella, Chief Dental Officer of Aetna. Special remarks were delivered by The Honorable Dr. Louis M. Sullivan; Dr. Judy Greenlea Taylor, NDA President; Dr. Nathan Fletcher, NDA Past President; and Dr. Marsha Butler, Vice President of Global Professional Relations & Marketing, Colgate-Palmolive Company.

According to the data from the attendees’ Post-Evaluation Surveys, 95.3% reported that they strongly agreed with the statement, “The overall quality of the activity was excellent.” Comments gleaned from some of the Evaluation Forms are indicative of the program’s impact and success:

“The symposium sheds light on the need of oral health to be a subjective part of a comprehensive approach to addressing general health issues in the undeserved communities.”

“Propelled me to strategize with my team around opportunities to build cultural competence as a vehicle to supporting our rural, safety net population, informed by the communities we serve.”

“Symposium educated me on the oral health disparities and inequities in our community.”

“Alerts me about the traction and nationwide support and evidence for dental therapy and how to include this concept within current discourses at my institution”

“As an MD [I will] attempt to do cursory oral health exam and encourage referral to appropriate oral health practitioner.”

“As a student it makes me think of the future of dentistry and how this generation can make a difference to ensure we have quality oral health care for all individuals.”

The symposium’s presentations are available for viewing on the NDA web site at www.ndaonline.org/healthiernationpresentations. The Executive Summary and Proceedings will also be available in the near future.

NDA-Pew Leaders Meet in DC for Legislative Advocacy Training Session and Congressional Visits

On Wednesday, September 14, 2016, the Pew Charitable Trusts conducted the NDA-Pew Leadership and Legislative Advocacy Training Program. The purpose of the training is to provide the leaders with the knowledge, skills and training required to become oral health advocates and policy informers. The focus of the NDA -Pew partnership is on eliminating oral health disparities by improving access to care, and promoting legislative policies that address the barriers to oral health (including financial, workforce, and social determinants). Current issues and future trends were presented, along with legislative updates, advocacy and spokesperson training with Policy Experts. The training was conducted by Valarie Molaison from Pew, Nate Myszka from Pew, and Fredette West, Chairman and Director of the African American Health Alliance and the Racial and Ethnic Health Disparities Coalition.

The NDA-Pew Leaders in attendance were Drs. H. Gene Brooks, Carrie Brown, Nicole Cheek, Judy Greenlea Taylor, Cheryl Lee, Dorita Newsome-Dobbins, Kim Perry, Madge Potts-Williams, and Ruges Stockton. Howard University College of Dentistry students participating as NDA-Pew Student Leaders were Christina Becco, Jose Liens, Heston Young, Ashley Lofters, Morgan Morrow, Josh Philip, Alexandra Schutz, Mercedes Sweeney, and Julian Wade.

Aetna Sponsors NDA-Dallas Inter-professional Opiates Addiction Seminar

On October 22, 2016, NDA and Gulf State Dental Association hosted an Inter-Professional seminar titled “The Prescription Opiate Epidemic: What All Health Professionals Must Know” at Baylor University Medical Center in Dallas, Texas, in collaboration with the Texas A&M University College of Dentistry Center of Excellence. The activity was supported with an educational grant from the Aetna Foundation. This is a timely topic because opiate addiction is a national public health epidemic, and in Texas, as in other states, all health professionals must assume responsibility and be a part of the discussion that will “stem the tide” of this epidemic. The objectives of this inter-professional seminar were to: 1) address this issue from a holistic approach with a focus on mental health; 2) increase awareness about the magnitude of this crisis; 3) discuss guidelines and strategies to change knowledge and prescribing practices or judicious opioid prescribing; and 4) present interventions that all disciplines can use to stem the tide of this epidemic.

The program planners included Drs. Jocelyn Kidd, Kiamesha McClellan, Ernie Lacy, and Hazel Harper. Ms. Lisa Sullivan, a Drug Enforcement Agency (DEA) Diversion Program Manager, gave a “DEA Opioid Update” with a focus on the national scope of the problem; schemes used to divert pharmaceutical controlled substances; and practitioners’ role in preventing diversion. Dr. S. Marshal Isaacs, Medical Director for the 12-city consortium of fire department-based EMS programs known as the UTSW/BioTel EMS System, spoke on “Alcoholism & Drug Addiction in the House of Medicine” with a focus on alcohol and drug addiction within the health professions; emphasizing the need for additional education and training; how to recognize warning signs and know what steps to take. Daphine Taylor, who has held the positions of Staff Pharmacist and Pharmacist in Charge in various large chain community pharmacies, selected the topic “A Pharmacist’s Opportunity to Educate” with a focus on recognizing and identifying different opioids, side effects and dosages; identifying mechanisms of action, overdose risks, and treatments; understand regulations and impact on healthcare costs; achieving better clinical outcomes while decreasing potential for abuse. Dr. Taaka Cash, founder and Chief Executive Officer of Privy Oasis, presented “Dead Voices Can’t be Heard”, providing a focus on Mental health and substance abuse trends in Texas adolescents; the impact of stimulant meds on substance abuse; roles of health professionals in preventing substance abuse in adolescents; and appropriate follow up/management. There were 122 attendees from various disciplines, including Dentists, Residents and Health Professions students, Pharmacists, Nurses, Physicians and faculty members.

Support was also provided by: the Federation of State Medical Boards, Texas A&M University Center of Excellence, Texas A&M University College of Dentistry, Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center School of Pharmacy, Metroplex Black Nurses Association, and Dallas County Medical Society.

Despite advances in health care and technology, Diabetes is on an upward spiral in the U.S. The concept of systems biology states that all body parts are interdependent and current research shows that the role of periodontal disease may have even more of an impact on overall health than previously thought. Diabetes is highly correlated with poor oral health and transcends many health disciplines. Some of the other health conditions associated with diabetes include obesity, high blood pressure and high cholesterol. Other risk factors include lack of exercise and depression. Because glaring disparities still exist in some population groups, the social determinants of health disparities are a major consideration in a team approach to coordinated patient care. Poverty and lack of health insurance present major barriers to care.

This unique program focuses on a team approach to patient care. The goal is to stem the tide of the Diabetic epidemic through collaboration and prevention. The symposium describes the roles and responsibilities of each health team member in providing patient-centered, coordinated care; close gaps in knowledge that are essential to communication and collaboration between health professionals; promote the development of strong health teams; and introduce cross-cutting ways to enhance the skills and efficacy of the inter-professional health team.

Learn:

- recent trends in the disease progression
- current tests, methods and disease indicators
- different treatment options and common side effects of each drug class
- current research on impact of diet, nutrition and exercise
- reasons for non-adherence
- appropriate interventions to improve patient outcomes

Both children and adults are at risk of developing cavities, or tooth decay. Cavities are the result of poor oral hygiene and retained dental plaque on the tooth surface. Bacteria in plaque produce acid that destroys the tooth's enamel and its underlying layer the dentin, and can eventually reach the tooth's nerve.

White spots are the earliest stage of decay and is reversible

Left untreated, the area may continue to break down, resulting in early enamel decay

Restoring the tooth with a filling is often necessary

Infected pulp, or nerve, can cause an abscess, which can require root canal treatment

WHAT CAN I DO TO PREVENT CAVITIES?

Take these simple steps to avoid the pain and consequences of cavities:

- Brush at least twice a day using a fluoride toothpaste, which strengthens teeth
- Floss at least once a day

- Use fluoride treatments or supplements as provided by your dentist
- Eat tooth-healthy foods such as fresh fruits, vegetables, cheese and other dairy products.
- Avoid sugary snacks and beverages

THE RIGHT WAY TO BRUSH

Clean the outer surfaces of your upper teeth, then your lower teeth by brushing away from the gumline

Clean the inside and chewing surfaces of your upper teeth, then your lower teeth using short back-and-forth strokes

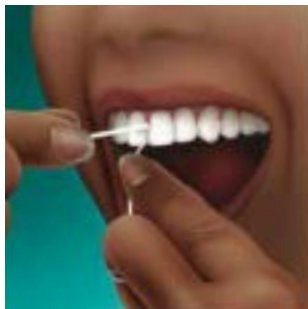

Gently brush your tongue to remove odor-causing bacteria for fresher breath

THE RIGHT WAY TO FLOSS

Use about 18 inches of floss, wrap around middle fingers, leaving an inch or 2 to work with

Holding floss taut, gently slide up and down between your teeth

Keep floss pressed against the tooth but never snap the floss against the gums

WANT THE BEST PRODUCTS FOR CAVITY TREATMENT AND PREVENTION?

Cavities are not only painful, but bad for you too. Try some Colgate® products specifically designed to help prevent cavities.

The Surgeon General's Call To End The Opioid Crisis

"We, as clinicians, are uniquely positioned to turn the tide on the opioid epidemic."

– U.S. Surgeon General Vivek Murthy

Arlene Lester, DDS, MPH,
Regional Minority Health Consultant (HHS-Region IV), Office of the Secretary, U.S. Department of Health and Human Services

Dear Fellow NDA Colleagues,

Our nation is in the midst of an unprecedented opioid epidemic. More people died from drug overdoses in 2014 than in any year on record, with greater than six out of ten deaths involving opioids—including prescription opioid pain relievers, heroin and synthetic opioids such as fentanyl.

As we look to inspire the frontline role of dental care professionals to combat the crisis, I am pleased to join the Office of the U.S. Surgeon General in promoting the TurnTheTideRx opioids campaign website at www.TurnTheTideRx.org. The site provides a handy practitioner's pocket guide, access to free trainings, information on Prescription Drug Monitoring Programs and fact sheets to advise decision-making in prescribing opioids for pain management.

Accessible on mobile devices, one of the core features of the site is the health care professional's pledge. By Taking the Pledge, dental care professionals will join other health care professionals across the United States in showing their commitment to turning the tide on the opioid epidemic.

NDA-HEALTH NOW - New Orleans® Partner Receives HRSA Grant Award for New Oral Health Program

NDA-HEALTH NOW® is proud to announce that EXCELth, Incorporated, a Louisiana-based Federally Qualified Health Center (FQHC) and partner of NDA-HEALTH NOW - New Orleans®, was awarded a HRSA Oral Health Expansion Grant Award, one of twelve grantees in Louisiana. “We are both excited and pleased that through these funds, EXCELth will be able to expand access by hiring additional dental personnel and expanding their mobile dental program,” says NDA Deputy Executive Director LaVette Henderson. Excelth also plans to increase service sites by providing care at senior centers, school based sites and expanding their own dental clinics to accommodate patients of other FQHCs. See the HRSA Press release below:

"Today, Health and Human Services (HHS) Secretary Sylvia M. Burwell announced nearly $156 million in funding to support 420 health centers in 47 states, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico to increase access to integrated oral health care services and improve oral health outcomes for Health Center Program patients.

This funding enables health centers to expand integrated oral health care services and increase the number of patients served. With these awards from the Health Resources and Services Administration (HRSA), health centers across the country will increase their oral health service capacity by hiring approximately 1,600 new dentists, dental hygienists, assistants, aides, and technicians to treat nearly 785,000 new patients.

'Oral health is an important part of our overall physical health and well-being,' said Secretary Burwell. 'The funding we are awarding will reduce barriers to quality dental care for hundreds of thousands of Americans by bringing new oral health providers to health centers across the country.'

Oral health problems can be a sign of illness elsewhere in the body. Additionally, lack of access to preventive and routine dental care for underserved populations can result in dental conditions requiring more costly emergency dental treatment.

'HRSA will continue to explore ways to further integrate oral health services within primary care settings, and increase awareness of the connection between oral health and overall health,' said HRSA Acting Administrator Jim Macrae.

Today, nearly 1,400 health centers operate approximately 9,800 service delivery sites in every U.S. state, D.C., Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and the Pacific Basin; these health centers employ more than 170,000 staff who provide care for nearly 23 million patients. In 2014, health centers employed over 3,700 dentists, more than 1,600 dental hygienists, and over 7,400 dental assistants, technicians and aides. They served about 4.7 million dental patients and provided nearly 12 million oral health visits."

The Infinity Show Band of Atlanta provided hours of amazing music for dancing and celebrating.

Dr. Judy Greenlea Taylor presided over a remarkable evening of fellowship, food, friends, and festivity.

The evenings awardees were Dr. Madge Potts Williams (President's Award), Dr. Hugh V. McKnight (Special Recognition Award), Drs. Alfred Wyatt and Kim Turner (2016 Convention Committee Chair Award), and Drs. Hazel Harper Johns, Roy Irons, and Douglas Rucker (Life Member Award).
